New Party Win Proves Shocker

By TOM GOULD (Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA The little general election of Halloween turned loose a political goblin that Canada's Liberal and Conservative parties fear will haunt them for years to

Results of four federal by-elections came as a stunning blow to the Conservative government, gave some measure of elation to the Liberals and marked the spectacular emergence on the political scene of the so-called New Party.

BEER FOR HAIRDO NOT FOR BREAK

LONDON (AP) - Twenty-six women who make a beer shampoo staged a one-hour walkout Monday because the firm barred them from drinking beer on their tea break, Bearing aloft a banner with the words "We Want Our Beer Break," the women marched to a pub and had their beer.

The manager, Mrs. Connie Danbury, 47, said the girls had started dipping their tea cups into one of the barrels of beer used for the shampoo.

"They're a wonderful crowd of workers," she continued, "and the beer break boosted their morale. So I started ordering an extra gallon a week for them to drink. Then the boss found out and said it had to stop."

'I can't have women drinking beer at work," said Eric Lincoln, the firm's 48-year-old managing director. "If word got around, we'd have drunks coming here for jobs."

Mr. Diefenbaker Rebuffed

MR. DIEFENBAKER'S NEW minister of forestry, Mr. Hugh John Flemming, now has a seat in the House of Commons, but the results of yesterday's four federal by-elections can provide only cold-comfort for the Prime Minister.

His party lost two of the three seats it had held. The Liberals retained Niagara Falls and regained Labelle, while the New Party took Peterborough, a Conservative stronghold for the last 20 years.

Only the success of Mr. Flemming, premier of New Brunswick until his provincial government was defeated last summer, saved the Conservatives from complete rejection in what represents the first serious fest of national strength since the last general election. And sisted by his selection for federal cabinet office prior to the voting.

The results do not make any serious inroad into Mr. Diefenbaker's majority in the House. They do, on the other hand, reflect a further swing of sentiment away from his party—a swing clearly indicated at the provincial level in elections earlier this year.

Unusual importance is given by New Party leaders to the election of their candidate in Peterborough. That is a natural enough reaction, though his announced intention of sitting apart from the CCF, House group and voting independently raises interesting speculation.

The Liberals have every reason to be gratified. Their retention of Niagara Falls was not unexpected, Neither was their victory in Labelle where Quebec's resurgent Liberalism, revealed by Mr. Jean Lesage's provincial triumph last June, seems to be making steady progress.

Conservative candidates went into the contests yesterday under the severe handicap of representing a party in power during times of economic stress and public disillusion. But these were not the only obstacles they faced. Conservative promises still unfulfilled, the intraparty division between Queen's Park policies, in defence all were factors in the rebuff Mr. Diefenbaker has

He has occasion now for serious and not very happy thoughts. Mr. Pearson has grounds for underagement for his effective work in rebuilding Liberal strength in the country. It is likely that have plenty of time; Mr. Diefen-baker will be in no hurry, after Monday's results, to go to the people of this largest Weish city. There, in a tiny REPORT ENDORSED BY A REPORT END of the B.C. Federation of Labor in Vancouvers last week touches a new low childish vituperation and bad taste. It may have provided an outlet for the spleen of the officials who composed it, but it does the cause of labor no service to reveal the in-temperance and immaturity of some of its leaders.

Most members of the Federation, seeing the report in cold brint, will, it is hoped, side with Mr. O'Keefe of the Electrical Workers union, who dissociated himself from the presentation and urged the gathering (without success) to "lend a little decency" to the pro-

To Lure the Young Reader

A LTHOUGH CANADA IS OFFI-cially bilingual, the reality is far from such a description, and it is commendable that a number of classes in the elementary schools here are now being taught conversational French to prepare them for later studies in high school. In this connection a forthcoming display of French books for chil-dren is of particular interest. Some 150 volumes will be shown at the Art Gallery during the week beginning tomorrow—an attractive sampling of French publications in this field—which some teachers may wish to make available to their classes. The display will be opened classes. The display will be opened by M. The display will be continued for another week at the City Library before touring the province.

We hear a great deal these days about reaching the moon in practical ways. Years ago we walked along Cordova Bay beach at night with some children, when the full moon had just risen above the troe tops on the far side of the bay, sending a silvery beam of light across the water to us.

One of the group, being familiar with Longfellow's poem "Hiswatha," remarked: "The pathway to the moon." We stopped and watched for some time this bright sparkling path, leading this bright sparkling path, leading this bright sparkling path, leading the first

A LTHOUGH THE COMMUNITY Chest campaign officially ends this week, less than half of the $350,000 objective has been reached. A considerable sum, of course, is still in the hands of the canvassers, and Chest officials are hoping for a total over the $300,000 mark. This, however, will fall far short of the required amount.

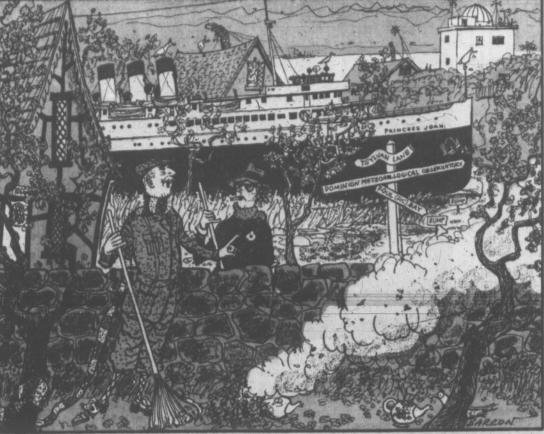

The official objective represents the sum of the needs of the 22 member agencies of the Chest, as contained in the budgets they have presented. The agencies themselves keep their figures to a minimum, so that the campaign objective is rarecuts must be made in the plans of the agencies.

This man and his kind in the lovely narrow valleys of Wales have achieved a social revolution since I last saw them in the black days of the great depres-sion. Program

ON the fifteenth birthday of the United Nations Charter the United States has joined hands with Canada and other nations in a program to strengthen the United Nations by making it the central agency in a great-humantarian enterprise to feed the world's hungry millions,

Under a resolution introduced by these countries the Food and Agriculture Organization, a specialized United Nations agency, would survey the world's food needs, especially in Africa and Asia, and would then establish procedures in consultation with the Secre tary General by which countries with food surpluses would transfer "the largest practicable quantities" of such surpluses to countries in dire need of

This program, urged by President Eisenhower in his address before the General Assembly last month, would join his own "Food for Peace" plan with the Food and Agriculture Organiza-tion's "Freedom from Hunger" cam-paign, both of which are, in turn, parts of the multi-faceted and much larger program of aid extended by the free world to its less developed members.

But putting the food program under United Nations auspices holds the hope that this would enlist more countries in meeting the primary and most urgent requirements of the needy nations and at the same time avoid the suspicions which Communist propaganda has aroused against bilateral programs. Under the program, the United States and Canada, which have largest food surpluses, would also the largest contributors.

The American food program is already the greatest lifesaver the worldhas ever seen; more than $9 billion worth of our surplus foods have been shipped to more than one hundred countries during the last six years and could have got anything from us. For six months every miner was working as he'd never worked before. We thought we were working for ourselves the state of the st thirty charitable agencies, including the United Nations Children's Fund.

But the American Commodity Credit Corporation has still some $6 billion tied up in surplus wheat and corn and the Canadian wheat surplus is around $800 million.

Under the United Nations auspices the food surpluses would be transferred under similar "special terms." These "special terms" have often aroused op-

This view is perverse. Fluoride tablets retail for three cents each—about $10 per child per year. Fluoridated tap water in Metro would cost each year about eight cents

Bill Muncy was principal of Margaret Jenkins, a grade school that has been important to two generations of my family. He progressed with the times, but he carried with him that sound background of teach-ing and discipline which never allowed the boys and girls to dominate staff or school.

He would not have claimed credit for their achievements, but he must have smiled with satisfaction when he read about them. Thoughtful parents of those students had every reason to appreciate the care with which Bill Muncy had helped to cultivate the young minds entrusted to him.

The same parents will see, in retrospect, other pictures of Mr. Muncy outside the classroom but still of and for the school. They'll recall him exhorting the school team to greater effort in grass hockey have you noticed how many of Victoria's better girl grass hockey players came up under his tutelage? And they'll remember the labor he put into musical productions for school concerts—a bit ambitious for his young people, some of us thought, but the kids liked it, worked at it and did a creditable job.

He never spared himself. White hair ruffled, red face a little too florid from his. efforts, Bill Muncy attacked the job of developing hockey or vocal ability with a physical zeal. It paid off.

A rich man, Bill, wealthy in the intangi-le returns from the latangibles he invested in boys and girls—a teacher proud of his craft and a decoration to it.

The debt I owed Bill Muncy could never be repaid. But hope endures that payment may be made in kind by the youngsters, now growing older, to another generation com-

Dr. Carl H. Greene a while ago studied 926 jaundiced patents in a hospital. Among the young persons under the age of 20 years,

87 per cent had hepatitis, or inflammation of the liver, while among the older patients the cause was a surgical condition such as gallstones or occasionally cancer, in 80 per cent of the men and in 95 per cent of the women. In persons who have had severe hepatitis or who have been alcoholic, the hepatitis may be followed by a cirrhosis, or atrophy and hardening of the liver. In the older patients quite a few of the men and a few of the women had cancer of the head of the pancreas, or of it tends to block the duct that carries bile from the liver to the bowel, and this causes jaundice. Usually, cancer of the liver is secondary to cancer of the bowel or stomach or gall-bladder. Inflammation of the gallor gail-bladder. Inflammation of the gail-bladder with stones is found most often in middle aged or elderly women. In some of them the diagnosis is easy because they have had attacks of severe pain in the upper right side of the abdomen. Cancer and cirrhosis are found more often in men than in women.

When jaundice comes to a man or woman, who some time before, has had gallstorfes removed, the physician will fear that stones were left in the common duct which leads from the liver to the small bowel. Often an expert in this field of medicine can quickly tell what is causing the jaundice, from the age and appearance and sex of the person, the history, the presence or absence of pain and the results of a number of tests, such as one which shows how much bile there is in the blood and whether this amount is tending to remain constant or to go up X-ray tests may show stones

Many of us physicians think that the patient who has had a heart attack ought safer if he is gotten back to his job, and his employer must not be too fearful of taking him back.

LONDON (AP) - The jet travel joke goes something like this:

"Breakfast in Tokyo; luncheon in Karachi; dinner in London-and baggage in Buenos Aires." -It's not as far fetched as it sounds.

British European Airways estimates that so far this year 10,000 pieces of luggage have gone adrift in Europe. At a cost of countless dollars and many hours, nine-tenths has been recovered. The International Air Transport Association has set up a special task force at London Airport to seek a solu-tion to this annoying problem.

The big airlines at London Airport, one of the busiest in the world, say they rarely have to report that one of their passengers is missing. British Overseas Airways Corporation tells of two stringent checks at the aircraft steps. But you can't talk to a piece of baggage, and that's why B.E.A. has a staff of 40 "amateur detectives" working 24 hours a day trying to trace mislaid luggage.

No Third World War If Western Bloc Is Strong

By NORMAN CRIBBENS War will never start if the western nations are strong.

That is the dictum of Air Marshal Sir Edward Chilton, chief of Britain's RAF coastal command, who arrived at Es- , quimalt- aboard a Canadian battleship Monday evening.

"In this wicked world you always have to be abreast of the other fellow—you have to get up early in the morning." said the jocular, professor-like air chief, peering over his halfon glasses with an indul-

Air Marshal Chilton said he had a favorite "carrot" which he dangled in front of his squadrons:

On a very dark night in June 1944, Flying Officer K. O. Moore of 224 Squadron, RAF, sank two U-boats in 20

"I am always quoting old Moore to them," he laughed. The RAF motto today is "That, of course, applies to any occupation," says Air Marshal Chilton. "You are alwaystrying to keep up with the other chap, whatever you are doing.

"So it is with the RAF. We have to keep up with every country" in the world and, because of our wonderful record, we have a high tradition to live up to."

The air marshal is, not surprisingly, a distinguished avia-tor himself. He planned most of the anti-submarine patrols

He objected to a Vancouver newspaper report that he had said Pacific defences were less important than the Atlantic.

"What I meant," he said, "was that North America is much more self-sufficient than Europe. The European countries—and especially Britain—need a vast tonnage of food to keep going. That is why the Atlantic lifeline will always be the chief target of enemy submarines in wartime.

"However, we are still hop-ing and praying that there will

Bearing aloft a banner with the words "We Want Our Beer Break," the women marched to a pub and had their beer.

The manager, Mrs. Connie Danbury, 47, said the girls had started dipping their tea cups into one of the barrels of beer used for the shampoo.

"They're a wonderful crowd of workers," she continued, "and the beer break boosted their mor-ale. So I started ordering an extra gallon a week for them to drink. Then the boss found out and said it had to stop.

The Way of the Worry-Free

Travel today has many spokesmen-each for a different way.

Haste urges you to take the swiftest road. Adventure, Glamour, Convenience-all loudly voice their reasons why. But while Assurance speaks quietly, it speaks with growing force to travellers everywhere.

Ask the venturer who leaves his car behind why he rides with Canadian National Railways-and you will find that luxury, restfulness, quiet and roomy comfort are all wanted things. But there is something more:

There is peace-of-mind as you go your way.

Concerned and thinking motorists contrast this ease of riding with the tension of driving-in the traffic of today's highways. And growing numbers say-"When it's over 100 miles, I take the train".

VATICAN HAILS VISIT OF CANTERBURY AS 'STEP TO UNITY'

400-Year Precedent to Be Broken

bury will meet a Roman Catholic Pope next month for the first time since Henry VIII broke with the papacy in the 16th century and set up the Church

Archbishop Geoffrey Fisher, spiritual leader of the Church of England, announced today he will pay a "codr-testy visit" to Pope John XXIII at the Vatican during a-Dec. 1-3 stopover on his way home from a Middle Eastern

While in the Middle East, Dr. Fisher will meet with prelates of the Eastern Orthodox Church in Jerusalem and Istanbul.

Vatican sources hailed the visit as a step toward unity, but warned against expecting immediate or dramatic developments. Both Dr. Fisher and Pope John have shown keen interest in closer church unity.

The Pope has called in Ecumenical Council, probably for 1962, as a step toward bringing the various Christian

Of all the Protestant churches whose creation ended the unity of faith in Europe, the Church of England has remained closest to Roman Catholicism in ritual and be lief. They are still divided by such great-barriers as the Anglican refusal to recognize the Pope as spiritual head of the church and the Roman Catholic dogme that the Pope is infallible in matters of faith and morals.

The Royal Family is in the forefront of the movement for closer relations with the Vatican. The Queen, temporal head of the Church of England, is planning to call on the Pope next May during a state visit to Italy: The Queen Mother and Princess Margaret have already visited him, and Princess Margaret was received by Pope

Leaders of the British Presbyterian, Congregationalist and Baptist churches welcomed Dr. Fisher's plan to meet Pope John. Initial British press comment also was favorable, with the Daily Sketch headlining "A Holy Summit" and the Daily Herald calling the meeting a "Vatican
